

Elan
Drug
Technologies

Message from EVP & Head EDT

Welcome and thank you for visiting our new Elan Drug Technologies website. This year we are celebrating 40 years in the drug delivery business, making us the longest established drug delivery company in the business.

As the world's leading drug delivery company, we are focused on helping clients find product solutions through our product development capabilities and our broad range of drug delivery technologies. We aim to provide clients with competitive advantages in the market and providing solutions that meet their particular product needs.

With an extensive, international patent portfolio around our drug technology platforms, our drug delivery expertise and experience is second to none. We can provide a wealth of technology options to fit many drug delivery needs, tapping into our Oral Controlled Release technology platform or our NanoCrystal® technology designed specifically for poorly water soluble drugs, or a combination of both.

Our drug delivery technologies are the key drivers of our business. We are very proud of the performance of our technologies to date and continue to look to enhance our offerings to clients. Enhancing our existing technologies and adding new technologies allows us to add and expand our product pipeline, with the goal of increasing the number of product opportunities we can pursue.

I hope you will spend some time on our website learning more about our business. Please come back and revisit our website to keep updated on announcements and developments in our business.

Best Regards,

Shane Cooke

Exec VP & Head, Elan Drug Technologies